

"Seriously, girls... Could you be a bit more quiet? One can also play without screaming so loudly." Lilith was more than annoyed right now. Her sister had agreed to watch over their way younger cousins for the whole day, until she realized that she didn't have time for them either. So instead of telling their aunt she simply ordered Lilith to watch over them instead.

It's not that Lilith disliked her cousins, it was just like that she already had prepared for a silent, relaxing evening. And with those two around it simply had become impossible for her to relax properly.

The cousins were twins, just like Sareena and Lilith, just way younger. Five years of age to be precise. They both also were partially demonic, so they also didn't exactly look human and were as pale as Lilith, and the older one of them, Lola, wasn't even entirely female. But unlike Lilith and Sareena Lola and her younger sister Abby loved playing with each other, if one could describe being up to nonsense as playing.

Lilith was currently sitting on the comfy couch in the living room, browsing some lewd fetish shop on her tablet computer while puffing on an obscenely huge cigar, just like usual. The two girls were running around like crazy, seemingly chasing each other, not paying too much attention to their surroundings, screaming as loud as they could. One could see by the look on Lilith's face how she became more and more annoyed. "Alright, that's it! Stop right now!" Lilith's usually calm, deep voice echoed through the room and the two girls immediately stopped in their tracks, looking at their cousin.

Lola made a fake pouting face while looking at Lilith. "Aww, come on, Lilly. Why don't you stop smoking and play with us? It's fun." Abby nodded in agreement. "Yeah, come on! Play with us." The two even started tugging on Lilith's robotic arm to get her off the couch. Lilith rolled her eyes in annoyance. "I told you to stop calling me 'Lilly', and no, I don't wanna..." Suddenly a thought ran through her head, and her annoyed look immediately turned into a smirk. "Hey, how about I get you two some ice cream?" The two girls' eyes lit up immediately, and they wanted to answer, but Lilith quickly raised her finger. "Buuuuut... You have to promise me to be way more silent now, and not make such a ruckus anymore." It was pretty cute to see how the two little girls lifted their hands to press them onto each other's mouths, nodding silently. "Mmmm... Good girls." With a chuckle Lilith put her cigar aside into the ashtray and lifted her gorgeous, latex-clad body off the couch she was sitting on. With some clicking sounds coming from her heeled feet she walked over into the kitchen to get some distraction for her cousins.

It only took a few minutes for Lilith to prepare two bowls with different flavoured ice cream, but when she reentered the living room she was so shocked that she almost dropped them onto the expensive carpet. "Are you for real?!" In that short time Lilith went for the kitchen the two girls somehow had managed to climb onto a huge bookshelf, dancing around on it and even pushing each other, almost slipping off. "You two! Down here! Now!" Seemingly Lilith's commanding tone didn't work that well though. She placed the two bowls on a nearby table and approached the bookshelf.

The two girls didn't even realize at first when Lilith was approaching them, way too distracted with them pushing each other. But when Lola finally saw the ice cream on the table she stopped, pointing towards it while poking her sister. "Hey, Lilly brought some ice cream! Yummy!" And without saying another word both of them simply jumped off the shelf onto the couch, right over Lilith. Unfortunately the shelf wasn't screwed into the wall behind, so from the impact of the two girls jumping off it the heavy wooden shelf began swaying back and forth. Lilith's eyes widened. "Oh, crap..." Those were the only words she was able to speak out before the shelf tilted forward, burying her with a loud bang.

The two little girls gasped when they heard the bookshelf collapsing and turned around before looking at each other. "Uh oh..." They both swallowed hard while inspecting the mess. "We have to clean this up before Lilly comes back. She'll be furious!" Lola walked forward to grab one side of the shelf and Abby just nodded and followed along. Surprisingly the two little girls managed to lift the shelf up again, placing it on the wall again, leaving a huge pile of books on the floor. Lola let out a sigh. "Damn, we have to hurry, sis. Our ice cream is melting already..."

So the two little girls started digging into the massive pile of all sorts of books, ranging from old spellbooks to rather lewd magazines definitely not suitable for children. Rather quickly the two girls placed the books back in the shelf in a random order (obviously, since they couldn't even read yet), and slowly it became quite clear what became of Lilith...

When the shelf began to fall forward Lilith immediately knew she was screwed. She didn't even have the chance to turn around and simply got hit by the shelf on her full front, dragging her onto the floor below. She could hear a squishing sound before everything went dark around her. The shelf and books were way too heavy for poor Lilith to move, so she just could lie there and hear her cousins muffled voices underneath that massive pile of books. When they lifted the bookshelf again some rays of light began to appear in Lilith's field of view, and when they started taking away those books it became brighter and brighter. Though unfortunately her ability to move didn't return at all...

"Ooooh..." Lola's eyes widened again when she finally realized that it wasn't an odd coloured carpet underneath all those books. "There you are, Lilly. I hope you're not mad. We already cleaned it up again." The two little girls smiled down at their older cousin, who was now completely flattened and pinned against the floor below. That heavy bookshelf surely did a number on her. She seemingly couldn't even talk, and just let out angry, muffled moans while her eyes followed the two girls' faces.

"See?" Lola looked towards her sister, laughing. "She isn't angry with us at all." She chuckled and walked over to the table to grab the two bowls filled with ice cream, handing one over to her sister before they sat down on the floor next to Lilith, starting to eat their reward for being silent.

For the next few minutes one could see them happily slurping their ice cream with huge spoons, but often hear them happily talking to each other, not even bothering to help Lilith out with her predicament, though one could hear her constantly moaning, seemingly trying to communicate with her cousins.

When they were finally done they placed their bowls aside, playfully petting their bellies while letting out a satisfied sigh. "Mmmm... Thank you, Lilly. You're just the best." Lola playfully poked Liliths flattened breast, forcing out another moan out of her squished mouth. Abby had a questioning look on her face. "What shall we do with her, sis? Seemingly she's stuck in that flattened state." Meanwhile Lola made a thoughtful face, pondering about what to do. Being partially demonic, just like their cousin the two girls were far from being innocent, and weren't too worried about their cousins state. A devious smirk spread over Lolas face. "Well, I guess she now can't resist to play with us, right?... Come, help me, sis." Lola gestured Abby to grab Liliths flattened head, and while Lilith moaned out even more the two started to pull. With a strange sound, almost like pulling duct tape off a table, the two girls finally pulled their flattened cousin off the floor, leaving her a crumbled up mess in the girls hands.

Lilith couldn't believe this was happening. It felt horrible being stuck on the floor while the two twisted girls simply ate their ice cream. When older these two definitely would be comparable to her own twisted sister. The poor flattened girl had no clue what was happening after she got peeled off the floor, she could just feel her two twisted cousins starting to do all sorts of twisted stuff with her.

She groaned when she felt one girl grabbing her arms while the other one grabbed her feet, when they both started to pull her apart. Seemingly they were playing tug of war with poor Lilith. Her poor body stretched out longer and longer, until it simply became too hard for the two small girls to pull her apart further and she simply snapped back to her original length, pulling the girl with her. Both young girls broke out into laughter and simply continued finding other proper uses for their flattened cousin.

At one point they bound both of her arms around a pillar in the entrance hall and started to twist her poor body around and around, stretching her out while she became thinner and thinner, and less and less human with every twist. All the time the two girls were giggling like crazy, definitely enjoying to play around with their poor cousin. Eventually they both let go of her and watched with relish how Lilith quickly untangled, making her feel insanely dizzy before landing on the floor again in her original, just flattened shape.

While the two began to untangle Lilith from the pillar Abby's eyes lit up again while trying her best to undo the knot containing Liliths arms. "Ooooh... Sis, we should play with Lilith outside. The weather is nice, and Lilly has such a big garden." Lilith let out another moan and tried shaking her head before remembering that she was completely immobile. "Oh, that's a great idea, sis." Without further hesitation Lola rolled her poor cousin up and went into the backyard through a door in the living room.

So for the next few hours Lilith had to endure the same twisted treatment outside of the house. They didn't really have any toys for children outside, but nonetheless the two young girls found many ways to entertain themselves outside. They spread out Lilith on the lawn and sat down on her while pretending to have a picnic, not even bothering to take their shoes off, so it didn't take long until Liliths flattened body was covered in dirty footprints. Lola even had decided to 'bake' a cake made of mud directly on Liliths belly.

After doing that for a while Abby told her sister that she was very disappointed that Lilly and Sareena didn't even have a swing in case their cousins would come over. That seemingly gave Lola another idea, and she simply shoved her sister off their flat cousin before she grabbed Lilith and walked over to two huge trees that were located in the back of the yard.

While Lola tangled and knotted Liliths arms around one tree Abby did the same to her legs, making a wonderful, makeshift hammock out of the poor flattened girl. Instead of simply hopping into Lilith for a nice nap the two small girls instead jumped in and began swinging back and forth, giggling like crazy. "Yay! This is even better than a mere swing, sis!" Both seemed to love it, and also they didn't seem to get tired that easily. It was impossible to say for Lilith how long she swung back and forth with her cousins inside before they eventually hopped out again and untangled her again. Still Lilith shrunk back to her original size, which really was a relief for her. Who knew what would have happened to her if those two would have realized they could have worn the poor girl out?

Seemingly they were heading back for the house when the two girls realized something. "Uh oh..." Lola looked down and noticed that they were leaving a trail of dirt behind on the floor. While they were running around outside they also didn't bother lifting Lilith up properly, so she was insanely dirty. Abby looked towards her sister in shock. "We can't keep things this dirty. Sareena will be mad at us if we don't keep the house clean." Lola nodded. "Yeah, and we also have to clean up Lilly too." She pondered again. "But I have an idea! Come, sis."

Abby and Lola crumbled Lilith up completely so that she wouldn't loose any more of that dirt, but also made it impossible for her to see what was happening. She could hear them walking down the stairs that lead into the basement, and into another, rather warm room before getting stuffed into some tight space.

"Do you know how this thing works, sis?" Both girls stood right in front of the washing machine, and Lilith already got stuffed into the machines drum. Abby looked at her sister with a worried look on her face. Of course Lola had no clue, but also didn't want to admit it. She nodded and crossed her arms. "Sure! I've seen mommy doing this countless times. First we do this." She grabbed a mug full of washing powder and tossed it in. "And then we do this..." Afterwards she simply started to play around on the knobs to set the right program. Of course she had no clue what those numbers and pictures meant, so she eventually stopped and closed the hatch. "And then we simply start the program." At last she pushed the green button, and the machine immediately whirred to life. One could already see some water flooding the drum Lilith was trapped in. Lola turned around. "Come, sis. This will take a while. And we still need to clean up the living room." Abby nodded, looking at the washing machine for a bit before turning around and following her sister back upstairs.

Meanwhile, inside the washing machine Lilith could feel how the water started to fill up the drum. The water was insanely hot, actually steaming hot, so hot that poor Liliths body actually twitched a bit when the water touched her. Lola of course didn't know, but she had set the machine to its highest settings. When the machine was properly filled the drum began to spin, taking poor Lilith with it. The poor girl immediately became dizzy while her body got soaked into the insanely hot water that immediately started to soak her body. At first the drum spun slowly, but just after a few minutes it shifted into the spin cycle. The machine roared up, and the insides of the drum became all blurry when one watched them from the outside. The display on the washing machine said that the current program would take roughly one hour...

In the meantime two young girls actually had managed to clean up the mess they had made inside the living room and on their way down, and when they came back the washing machine was just winding down and made some beeping noises, showing that the machine was finished with its current program.

A short moment later Lilith could feel the hatch getting opened and a hand reaching in to grab her still flattened form. "Mmmm... Lilly's all warm and cozy, and not even that wet anymore. I... Ooooooh." Lola gasped when she unfolded her poor, flattened cousin. There was a moment of silence before both little girls started to giggle. Lilith had no clue what was so funny at this moment. "You washed her way too hot, silly." Abby continued to giggle while letting her hands inspect Lilith. "Mommy did that once too. Some of my clothes didn't fit anymore afterwards." Lilith slowly realized what must have happened. Lola had washed her so hot that her entire body must have shrunk down in the process. And when Lola made her way up into the entrance hall again Liliths fears became reality when she caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror. Her still flat, still dressed body had shrunk down so much that she was now just as tall as her young, twisted cousins.

Still giggling the two sisters carried Lilith back into the living room where they placed Lilith on the couch, standing right in front of her. "She looks so silly right now, sis. What shall we do with her now?" Abby continued to gently pet and caress her poor cousin, forcing out even more moans. Lola meanwhile again made a thoughtful face until it rang in her mind. "Oh, I wanna try something!" Abby stepped back a bit when Lola started inspecting Liliths flattened form. Seemingly she was still quite stretchy and flexible. Lolas hands wandered towards Liliths face and towards her mouth. Suddenly Lilith could feel her mouth getting stretched apart inhumanly wide, actually over a foot wide. Abby gasped while Lola started to giggle. "Mmmm... Watch this, Abby!"

Liliths body got lowered, and from her point of view Lilith could see how her twisted cousins left foot got shoved into Liliths stretched out mouth, followed by her right one. Afterwards Lola sat down on the couch and started to pull poor Lilith up further while more and more of Lolas body disappeared between Liliths black, stretched out lips. Abby watched open-mouthed, shaking from excitement how Lola basically used Lilith as a skinsuit and slipped into her. It only took a few minutes until Lola completely had slipped into her cousins body, just with her head sticking out by now. While waving at her sister Lola grabbed Liliths hollow head and slipped it over her own head, almost like a mask.

Abby once again broke out into laughter when Lola pushed her hands into her sides and tried to look intimidating. "Now I'm your cousin Lilly. And since I'm older than you, you have to do what I tell you!" Poor Lilith's skin indeed fitted perfectly around Lola's body. She almost looked like a shortstack version of her former self. Lola snatched an unlit cigar from one of the wooden boxes spread throughout the room to impersonate Lilith even better.

It felt weird to be worn like that for Lilith, almost like she was a robot. At least she could see, and wasn't limited being an immobile, flattened person anymore. For the next hour Lilith had to endure feeling herself getting worn by her twisted cousin, who was chasing Abby through the house, fake smoking that massive cigar while berating Abby for all sorts of stupid stuff she did throughout the house. Both of them had a blast.

Right when they ran through the entrance hall and Lola shouted at Abby for climbing onto a pillar one could hear the front door opening. "Hey, girls. I'm back, I..." Sareena raised her eyebrow in curiosity when she looked at the strange scenery in front of her, her seemingly shrunken sister yelling at Abby. "Hello, Sareena. Hope you had some fun." When 'Lilith' turned around and sounded exactly like Lola it didn't take long for Sareena to realize what had happened, though she indeed was curious HOW it happened. "Oh, I definitely had some fun, little one." She approached Lola, gently petting her bald head while Abby slid off the pillar. "It seemed you had some fun too, and that you even got Lilith to join in."

Both girls nodded while smirking at Sareena. "Oh, yeah. At first she was all grumpy, but then she joined it." Sareena let out a chuckle when Lola started to peel her body out of Lilith again, stretching her mouth once again before pulling poor Lilith down her body. "Oh, dear. Don't do it like that." Lola looked at Sareena with a confused face. "What do you mean, Sareena?" She stepped out of Lilith, leaving her a pile on the floor. "You'll eventually wear her out like that. Come!" With another chuckle Sareena grabbed her poor sister and carried her over into the kitchen.

Lilith knew she was in trouble since her sister wasn't less twisted than her damn cousins. Abby and Lola followed Sareena and watched how she placed the flattened girl on the kitchen table face first. Then she grabbed a pair of scissors and before the girls could even react she made a long cut down from Lilith's buttcrack up to her neck. "There, that's way better." She rummaged around in a nearby drawer before pulling out a long zipper and some strong glue. Just a few skilled motions later Sareena had attached the zipper to Lilith's back before picking her up again. "There, that should work better."

Right when Lola was about to reach out to grab the poor Lilith suit one could hear a car horn outside of the house. "Aww... Mommy's already here." Lola and Abby made a pouting face. This had been so much fun, they definitely didn't want to head home yet. "Aww... Poor little girls." Sareena leaned forward, petting their heads. "Don't worry. Lilly won't run away. I'm sure she'll be happy to play with you the next time you visit us. Isn't that right, Lilly?" She lifted her poor, flattened sister up, who was just moaning in response. "Mmmm... See? She had a blast." The two young girls nodded and giggled.

Sareena leaned forward to receive a kiss on both cheeks from the two little devils before they turned around and left the house, leaving behind Sareena and her flattened sister.

Sareena chuckle. "Sis, I definitely didn't expect you to be so good with children. I assume you'll love to play with them next weekend too, right?" Without even waiting for a proper response Sareena hummed a melody before nicely folding her poor sister up into a rectangle before storing her away in a drawer in the living room. Afterwards she sat down in her favourite armchair and lit herself one of her sisters cigars while turning on the TV, letting out a satisfied sigh that there was noone around to annoy her.