October 21st, 2023.

Got pulled away from Halloween plans again to work on an assignment. König has apparently shown his face again, buying a suspiciously large amount of radioactive materials. Boss is worried he might be trying to get back into selling nuclear weapons on the black market, but I have my doubts. I put a stop to his operation last time and we have a lot of eyes and ears on his old channels. If he was gonna do the same scheme again he'd be an idiot.

I'm off to Santa Guardia, his private island in the Caribbean to investigate what's going on. I don't necessarily agree with going undercover twice for the same guy, but the boss says since I know him they want me on the field. Aleena gave me an experimental feather dye, hopefully that'll be enough to fool him. Wish she picked a better color than green though. Satellite imagery doesn't show construction of any above ground silos or plants, meaning they must be working underground. I'll be going undercover as a safety technician, hopefully that'll give me enough access to figure out what that bastard is up to and put a stop to it before he can do anything. My flight's tomorrow. It's time to lock König up for good.

Initial integration into the island has gone well. No one seems immediately suspicious and several incidents have secured my reputation as a trustworthy technician. König has been a slippery bird to find. He seems to spend most of his time in the administrative building or in Hangar 9. I can't even find it on the map and from other conversations I've heard it's the most restricted part of the island. I'm unsure how I'll be able to obtain access but I'll find a way.

Most of the other work around the facility has been militaristic in nature. Vehicles, rockets, his R&D is even working on stealth materials. If he's planning on selling this off to some PMC or terrorist cell it wouldn't be good. I don't know where the radioactive materials are, my guess is Hangar 9.

Don't know why but in the past day I've been getting a bit antsy. It might just be nerves, but I'm not sure how. I've fought this guy before, he's just a pushover with a big ego and too much greed. I'll update again once I have more information.

October 28th, 2023.

I'm beginning to get worried. König spotted me today but I'm unsure if he recognized me or not. If he remembers me then I'm in deep shit. Doesn't help that I've been feeling off. Something in the air maybe, the underground facilities here must be ventilated like shit. Dizziness and light-headedness are becoming more common. Sometimes lose my train of thought. No accidents yet but if I don't get some proper air for a few days it might happen.

I've heard rumors from listening in on other workers. Some people say they heard what was in Hangar 9. Whatever it is, they said it's gonna rewrite history.

Good news though. Manager has told me I'll be allowed to inspect equipment in Hangar 9 soon. I'll find out what König's doing then exfil. Capture too risky now, König's too protected. Can't hurt König... Can't hurt König...

October 31st, 2023.

I saw it. I can't remember it but I saw it. It's big. Bigger than nuke. Bigger than anything. Couldn't get photo. König was near. König recognized me. Didn't say it but I saw it in his eyes. He knows it's me. I gotta get out. Can't hurt König. Can't fight him. Need exfil now. But can't hurt König. Can't fight König. Room smells off. Gas in room. Can't escape. Can't fight König.

It's an opening.

König knew. König always knew. He told me I was foolish. I couldn't stand up to the king. König is taking me somewhere. He wants to show me a constant. I have to follow König. König is in charge. König is king. König is king.

Capture and/or Terminate protocols are active on Agent Etso.
