

You step out of your office building late at night, pulling the hood of your sweatshirt up in an attempt to keep out the pouring rain as you speed walk down the streets. Having recently gotten a promotion for your job you've received a sizable pay raise, but with higher pay meant much more responsibility and later hours. Though you were now more focused on following the directions on your phone, recently have learned about a new sushi restaurant that opened up. It was a little above your usual budget but you figured a celebratory dinner was well served, but now you were just hoping you'd make it there before the place closed.

Turning a corner you spot the neon sign in the distance, feeling relieved at how close you were. Quickly making your way to the building the sound of thunder rumbles overhead and the rain begins to fall even harder. Pulling the doors open and letting out a sigh of relief as you get out of the pouring rain. Turning back and stepping out of the entrance way and into the dining room. being met with a large sushi bar like restaurant. Standing in the center being a massive at least fifteen feet tall anthro dondozo. The massive pokemon turning to look back at you.

"Ah sorry lad, I'm closed for the night." As he turned to look at you you could get a better view of his form. His entire body covered in a thick layer of pudge, A large belly protruding outwards and sagging over his waistband, barely hidden underneath the chefs apron he wore, his gut hanging down and resting against his massive, tree trunk thick thighs. His arms are just as thick and chunky as his legs. As you went to apologize for coming in after close another bang of thunder roared out, shaking the building the two of you were in as the rain started to come down even harder.

"Well, it'd be irresponsible if I let you go back out in that weather. Come on in, you can join me for dinner!" He said as he gestured for you to come in.

"Thank you!" You say with a nod as you step up to the sushi bar's counter and took a seat.

"Oh it's not a problem at all!" The dondozo said, placing a tray of sushi on the counter, then another, then another, and another, until each square inch of counter was covered in large trays of sushi.

"Wow, do you plan on eating all of this?!" You say, amazed at how much food was sitting in front of you.

He let out a boisterous laugh at the question, "Well I can't let any of this go to waste, and besides, I'm massive!" He said, giving his big belly a slap. The massive mass jiggling and wobbling. You couldn't help but feel your eyes drawn to it as you heard it glorp and gurgle. "Of course feel free to help yourself to some!" With that he grabbed one of the trays of sushi and picked it up, bringing it up and overturning the entire tray into his mouth. You could hear his stomach rumble and gurgle loudly. You filled your plate with a small amount of the sushi, unable to stop looking up at the gluttonous pokemon. Swearing you could see his belly starting to swell even more, almost pushing up against the counter.

"So what brings you out here this late in the evening?" The Dondozo asked as he overturned another tray of food into his open mouth. Letting out a big belch afterwards. "Oof, excuse me."

"Heh it's alright." You respond feeling your cheeks flush a bit. "I just got a job promotion, thought I'd get myself a victory dinner. Didn't expect it to come with a show though."

His booming laugh filled the room. You could feel the floor beneath you rumble from the vibrations. "Well congratulations, I'm glad my gluttony can be the star of the show for your evening! You can touch it if you like." He said as he lifted up a corner of his apron, revealing a tiny bit of his white blubbery belly.

"Oh oh don't worry it's fi-" you were cut off by a massive boom. As the dondozo hefted his gut up and dropped it onto the counter. The plates and glasses shaking from the force of the impact as you were now mere inches away from his massive belly.

Tentatively reaching a hand out towards him, carefully pulling his apron up a bit before resting your hands on the behemoth's belly. It felt like a warm, soft, and heavy waterbed. Watching as your hand sunk into his belly, feeling the gurgles and groans happening beneath the surface. Carefully pushing up against his belly just to hear it gurgle in response, your face a bright shade of red. Starting to rub and knead small circles into the pokemon's blubber.

You looked up to see him looking down at you, resting his hands on his moobs with a content smile. "Having fun?"

"You're so soft and warm." You say making no attempt to hide your enjoyment as you go to embrace his belly. Wrapping your arms as far as you could, which really wasn't much, around his belly, resting the side of your face against him. Feeling his warm soft mass envelop you. Able to hear his belly churn and gurgle all of the sushi into more flab.

"I'm gonna take that as a yes." He chuckled, "Here watch this." He grabbed another tray of sushi and overturned it in his maw. You could hear him gulp and swallow followed by some small splashes as it landed inside of his mountainous belly. Instantly starting to gurgle and groan as the sushi was quickly digested, starting to feel his belly further pushing against you. Sitting back and watching as his belly grew, taking up more of the table, his overhang even starting to droop over the table on your end. You grabbed the end of his overhang, trying to heft his belly up. Watching it jiggle and wobble and feeling its weight in your hands.

"Did you just get fatter?!"

"Yup! Benefits of being a whale, we get fat quickly!" He said with a laugh as he gave his belly a slap, sending ripples throughout his huge belly.

"W-wow, that's impressive." You say, feeling your face flush, unable to take your eyes off of the massive gut. "Can I feed you?" You asked, your sudden eagerness catching both of you off guard.

"I've never had someone ask me that! Why not, it sounds like fun. Though why don't we get more comfortable first?" He said with a wink, standing up and undoing his apron and setting it to the side, revealing his belly in all of its obese glory. His white blubber belly hanging over his waistline and sagging past his knees, much lower than when you first came in. His arms and legs thickened by fat and covered by rolls and folds, jiggling with each movement. His massive moobs round and perky as they sat atop his belly. Swaying back and forth a bit as he showed himself off to you.

You felt your face heat up, unable to form words as you looked him over. Watching as he waddled over to your side of the counter, each thunderous step sending ripples through his large belly. Sitting down and laying down onto his back, his belly still rising higher than the counter. Giving his belly a pat, "Come on, get comfy."

You crawled up onto the counter, using it as leverage so you could step onto his belly, your leg sinking into his flab causing you to trip. Luckily there was a soft surface for you to land on, your impact sending ripples throughout his belly as the pokemon laughed and belched. Carefully army crawling forward to his front, able to see his face, bearing a large content grin as he rested his head on his arms.

"So are we ready?"

You continued to pour sushi into dondozo's mouth, watching as he ate and feeling his belly expand beneath you with each swallow. Watching it rise further above the counter next to the two of you. Your body sinking into his squishy belly as he continued to grow. Able to both feel and hear his belly churn and groan beneath you. You couldn't help but rub and grope his big belly as you fed him the rest of the sushi, the soft doughy blubber squishing between your fingers, the pokemon letting out a deep and satisfied belch each time you did.

Eventually the rest of the sushi was poured down into his gullet, the dondozo breathing heavily as his large hands rubbed the broad sides of his gut, letting out a belch between every few breaths. Looking up at you, a happy and content expression on his face. The floor next to you two covered in now empty trays of sushi.

"Did you enjoy yourself?" You asked as you looked down at the massive pokemon.

"Yeah, that was amazing." He said between heavy breaths.

"Good, we should do this again." You responded as you laid down on his belly, hugging the squishy fat rolls to the best of your ability and giving his belly a few pats, his body jiggling beneath you. The pokemon set his heavy arms on your back as he hugged you into his belly, nuzzling into him.

"Definitely, I'd love that." He said with a chuckle, his belly gurgling and groaning beneath you, able to still hear the rain pouring outside. "Why don't you spend the night? You have a bed here already." He said with a grin.

You couldn't help but laugh, "Sounds like a plan." You responded as you wrapped your arms around him the best you could, resting into his blubber. Feeling the pokemon hug you tightly into his soft pillowy gut, his belly's continuous rumbles and gurgles soothing and lulling you to sleep.