

Syntrívon woke up during the middle of the night he thought he heard a massive roar he tiptoed outside his home and looked up at the sky he soon spreads his wings and took off into the sky

During the flight he remembered the times he was joined by 2 old friends who were no longer around, he sniffed a bit sad a tear fell from his eyes he entered the city he remembered from a long time ago

Syntrívon lands near the site of a resort for riders and their dragons however the large building sat abandoned he opened the doors that was left unlocked he walked inside the massive lobby was empty no furniture was seen, he looked around before walking into a large room he remembered the smell of chocolate, a old friend saying he loved the chocolate, he sniffed and entered the empty pool

Syntrívon laid in the middle of the pool where chocolate was in a long time ago where he curled up began to cry loudly however no one heard him greg entered the building in the morning he heard his mudwing crying, Greg soon went into the pool room and saw his mudwing sleeping in the pool where chocolate was a long time ago greg soon hugged the sobbing mudwing and helped him out

Soon Syntrívon entered his cave and laid with his parents and brother the 4 mudwings sleeping Tar, maroon and terracotta letting Syntrívon know that they were there for him and keeping him safe