

Saturday Brunch

A peanut butter and jelly sandwich is the type of breakfast that Trace typically prepares for himself on the weekends. He walked into the kitchen and reached for the peanut butter, but he quickly realized that it was missing from the cabinet. He saw what appeared to be clumps of peanut butter forming a trail of peanut butter in the other room. He proceeded to Flora while carrying an empty jar after following the trail of peanut butter. When he asks Flora why she took the peanut butter, she confesses that she has been experiencing an intense desire for peanut butter recently. Trace's concern for her grows to the point where she is speechless because she does not know what to say. After that, he brings Flora to Michiru, where the tiger has a candid conversation with the raccoon about Flora's addiction to peanut butter. Michiru is under the impression that she needs to seek professional assistance, but Flora insists that she is completely content with her life and that she will not seek assistance so that she can keep eating peanut butter. After that, Trace goes to the dining room to have a conversation with a Basitin about the eating patterns of his fiancée.

Morning Report

When Trace entered the room, Keith and Natani were in the middle of eating their breakfast, which consisted of bacon. After greeting Keith, he begins telling him about the cravings that his fiancée has for peanut butter. Flora's addiction is causing her to gain weight, which can lead to a variety of health issues, including heart disease, according to Keith, who expresses his concern while stuffing his mouth with bacon. Trace is concerned about this because he does not want her future husband to sustain an injury. He came to the conclusion that he would make an effort to assist her, but Keith advised that he (Trace) should just let things be as they are. Natani argues to the contrary, suggesting that Trace should attempt to confront Flora in order to prove that he is a reliable partner. At long last, Kathrin emerges from the shadows to inform Trace that his fiancée has been seen outside with another person. Trace, who is suffering from feelings of isolation, makes the decision to search for her. The next question that Keith asks Natani is, "Who is Kat?" Natani responds by saying that Keith has never met her before. In response to his question, Natani tells him that they ought to wrap up their brunch.

Nut Allergy

Flora is currently following Mikdelawit out onto the porch while they are on the opposite side of the house. During the course of their conversation, Flora brings up something about gaining weight due to the peanut butter stash. On the other hand, Mikdelawit cautions her that putting on weight is not good for one's health. Flora makes an excuse that she can't stop and has no control over it. Flora did not give in. Mikdelawit made the offer to accompany her to therapy sessions. They both started arguing about whether or not Flora should stop what she was doing. As Trace walked out to the porch, the argument heated up. Trace then kicked the peanut butter jar, which fell on Carlotta, who has a peanut allergy, causing her body to swell. Mikdelawit rushes to her side with an epipen and saves her life by injecting her immediately. Carlotta receives an apology from Trace, but he also makes the point that this mishap could not have occurred without Flora's peanut butter. Mikdelawit is of the same opinion that the peanut butter should not be passed around. Carlotta comes across to see who else might have some peanut butter already worked up as Flora is adamant about how much she needs the peanut butter. Flora sobs while running away with her peanut butter, but Trace is determined to find her because he is concerned about her wellbeing.

Health Warning

Michiru is conferring with Shirou in his office regarding the matter that Trace has brought to her attention. She mentions that peanut butter is full of carbs and proteins that have a high calorie count in each of these components. Michiru makes a note of Shirou's observation that excessive consumption of these can result in weight gain because they are calorie dense. After that, she goes searching for Flora, who is believed to be hiding somewhere in the woods. She pulls out her list and starts reading it out loud to herself. She has a whole presentation about the dangers of calorie overconsumption. Flora responds dismissively, "Oh really?" After that, Flora returns to the house, where she makes the decision to store the jars of peanut butter in a concealed but secure location.

In a Private Place

Flora collects all of the peanut butter jars and takes them to the very back of the closet, where she hides them in a location only she knows. When she thinks no one is looking, she will sneak into the closet and eat her peanut butter privately. Rhea eventually walks through Mikdelawit's house in search of Flora. She enters the upstairs bedroom and notices eating sounds coming from the closet. Flora was stuffing her face with peanut butter when Rhea opened the door, startled by her friend, who jumped at the sight of her friend. Rhea inquires as to Flora's whereabouts, and the tiger explains that she has an uncontrollable urge to eat peanut butter. Rhea asks if she can get assistance, but Flora refuses because she does not want to stop eating peanut butter. Rhea tries to sign the counseling agreement online, but Flora slaps her to stop her. Rhea responded with her own slap, and the closet quickly devolved into an all-out brawl. Rhea throws a knife at Flora to stop her as the conflict escalates. Flora quickly ducked out of the way, leaving the knife puncturing the air mattress. A gust of wind blows in and tosses Rhea back against the bedside, knocking her unconscious to the floor. Flora secures the bed with duct tape before gently laying Rhea on it.

Blubber Boy to the Rescue

After taping up the bed, she notices that the air bed is a bit deflated.

She begins blowing into the air valve and soon finds herself wheezing and out of breath.

Humanized Samiore suddenly wakes up to the sound of Flora's gasping breath and comes to check on her.

After seeing what's wrong, he inflates himself and fills up the bed.

Flora then thanks H. Samiore for helping her.

Samiore asks her why the mattress was deflated in the first place.

Flora explains the conflict with Rhea and the knife, and then how Rhea got knocked out, and Samiore understands and lets Flora stay with him.

Eventually, Flora explains all of her past to Trace before they take a nap, in her own universe, before they get kidnapped by aliens and are brought to this flawed universe.

In the meantime, Michiru was passing out flyers for her birthday on Friday the 13th.

Mikdelawit books a tour of the peanut butter factory for that day.

Flora gets extremely excited about the trip, but unfortunately, Natani doesn't want to go.

He decides he should stay at home with Keith, Buwaro, Loona, Hank, Kieri, Rick, and Morty all day.

A Messed Up Experience

On the following Friday, anyone who is interested in joining packs their belongings into a van and travels to Michigan, which is the location of the factory.

Because there is so little traffic on the highway, their progress was unhindered and they made great time.

When they arrived, they began the factory tour, but Flora noticed a bakery.

She split from the group and began sampling all of the baked goods.

Kathrin appears out of nowhere and inquires as to Flora's whereabouts.

Flora's Tubby Tummy

Flora made her way to the bathroom so that she could inspect herself in the mirror and determine how much weight she had gained. Trace is informed by Flora that she appears to have put on a few pounds recently. After that, she gives him a hug and tells him how much love she has for him. Suddenly, she hears an angry voice yelling Flora's name from the other room. The voice is coming from the direction of the other room. Trace and Flora rush into the adjoining room, where they find Kathrin, who tells them that Flora has made her feel insulted. She blames Flora for her weight gain and begins stuffing cake into her mouth. Trace makes an effort to stop Kathrin, but she pulls away too quickly for him to catch up. In the end, Michiru throws a chair at Kathrin, which hits her smack in the middle of the head. As Kathrin loses consciousness as a result of the head trauma, Flora makes an effort to calm herself down from the stress. Steve is persuaded by Michiru to carry Kathrin to the next room. The heroes conclude their celebration, and the next morning they all return to their homes to unwind.

Michiru's Birthday Bash

After the tour, the heroes book a room at the nearby hotel for tonight, and they bring any leftovers from the factory to share with the other people who will be there to help them celebrate. They lit twenty candles atop the peanut butter cake and placed it in the center of the table. Michiru extinguished all the candles and wished happiness for everyone. Flora has clearly gained a few pounds as everyone takes a piece of cake.

Big Kat

Flora explains to Kathrin about her peanut butter addiction that she couldn't stop herself from coming back here. Kathrin tells him that it sounds like she is pregnant and that the baby inside her is craving peanut butter. Flora then implied to Kathrin that she had tried some of the cake. Flora said she didn't think it was healthy for Flora to eat it, but Flora said she has to trust her to gain weight if that's what she wants. Kathrin is upset, but agrees to eat the whole cake and loves it. The two pig out on all of the baked goods until Kathrin manages to become chubby. Flora begins teasing Kathrin about gaining weight, but Kathrin laughs and points out that Flora has gained weight too. Flora looks down at her belly and realizes she is pregnant, like she was in her own universe. Flora's jaw drops in surprise. The whole team (except Michiru, Trace, and Shirou) cheered for her as she stood in shock.
