

Contains: Femdom, Living Plushies, Bubbles, Balloons, isekai

Ted woke up one coxy morning to yet another passionate Kitsune kiss, greeted by the loving eyes of the plushie-macer fox Naomi. With her arms tightly wrapped around him, he closed his eyes as he accepted her loving kiss, letting out a happy little whimper as she smooched him senseless, making him feel all tingly and warm in the chest. Not wanting to put him back to sleep so soon, Naomi abruptly ended her magical kiss, leaving the poor fox boy wanting more as he was left infatuated as usual. Naomi couldn't help but giggle at his flushed and love-struck face, gently stroking the top of his head as she pulled him against her soft chest, allowing him to recover from her loving smooch. Ted was so entranced by her magic kiss, he didn't even care that he was sleeping on the softest bed in existence. Once his senses were back, he lifted his head from her chest and looked her in the eye, giving her a sleepy but sweet: "Good morning."

Naomi just giggled as she kissed his forehead, still keeping her arms wrapped around him as she carried him out of bed. Ted wouldn't normally need help getting out of bed with the other kitsunes, but Naomi's kisses would always leave him in a rather silly and giggly state for at least a few minutes. After he recovered, the two got dressed as they said goodbye to the many cuddly plushies that inhabited the place, including the bunny who smothered him with her own affectionate kisses before seeing him off. Afterward, they left Naomi's plush world and teleported back to the Japanese-styled inn the kitsune's all shared. As usual, Ted and all his kitsune partners ate breakfast together, sharing their fantastical dreams with one another while throwing little flirty remarks at Ted, making sure to remind him of his status as their shared pet boyfriend. Stella would collect all of the plates once breakfast was finished. Just as Ted was about to offer help, Abby and Naomi scooted up to him on either side as they both grabbed arms.

"Huh?" Ted turned his head back and forth, looking at both Abby and Naomi as they stared at him intensely. Letting out their foxy little high-pitched giggles, the waggled their tails wildly as if barely able to contain their excitement. It took Ted a moment to figure out why they looked so eager, until a blush spread across his face. "Oh!" he gasped unable to hide his flustered blush, which only made the fox giggle more. "That's right... you two have been collaborating on something that you wanted to show me?" he asked, managing not to stutter. Abby squeezed his arm tighter as she leaned in closer, bubbles pouring out of her ears as her tails swished in the air. "That's right! Hehehe..." her bubbles popping as soon as they emerged from her ears, bursting with her excitement. "You could call it a collab, or you could call it a labor of love." Naomi cooed in his ear, puckering her lips as if teasing him with another kiss.

Unable to contain herself, Abby jumped on her feet, tugging Ted while grabbing Naomi's kimono with one of her tails. "Come OON! We've been waiting all morning for this!" she huffed, pulling both of them onto their feet as they left the room. Despite nearly tripping over the tatami mats, Ted followed closely as they made their way up the stairs, Abby's swishing tails brushing against him all the way up. Nervous and flustered, the young man could only imagine what they had in store for him, thinking that perhaps they were going to trap him in a bubble made of plush fabric or something of the sort. Once they made their way down the short hallway, Abby threw open one of the sliding doors to the lounging room and pointed her hands and tails toward a table sitting in the center. “Tadaaaa!” she announced.

Ted’s expression completely froze as his eyes shot wide open in awe. Set up on the table was a D&D board, one like he had never seen before, with a sketched landscape of pastel mountains and forests, with tiny Pokemon figurines spread across it. It looked so detailed and refined, almost like concept art rather than a board game. But what really stood out was the setting, with the board looking much like it was made of bubble gum, and the Pokemon figures appearing as tiny plushies. “Wow...” was all he could say, left speechless by the meticulous effort that clearly went into making this board. “We knew you’d love it!” Abby squealed as several heart-shaped bubbles poofed from her ears and floated toward the ceiling. Ted slowly turned his head back to the two foxes, looking as if he was going to pass out from happiness. “You mentioned you loved D&D, so we spent a little time on a campaign we thought you would like.” Naomi explained.

Before she could say anything else Ted ran up to them and gave them a big hug, squeezing them as tight as he could with a wide grin spread across his face. “Thank you!” he said with childlike glee, looking just as happy as Abby was just a few seconds ago. The two foxes looked at one another, sharing a satisfied grin as Ted kneeled back to the table, his eyes darting all over the place as he took in the beautifully crafted landscape art before him. “So, you guys play D&D too!?” Ted asked excitedly. Abby and Naomi just looked at each other for a second, as if they weren’t sure how to immediately respond. “Well not exactly...” Abby confessed, scratching her ear nervously. Ted looked a bit puzzled, he could hardly believe what she was saying considering how perfectly crafted the D&D board was.

“You see. Before we took you in, Abby and I used to play a little pranks on each other from time to time.” Naomi explained. “Oh! Like that time you gave me a Dratini plush For Valentine’s day, it suddenly grew my hands and slurped me inside. You used me as a body pillow while I was stuck inside of it.” Abby giggled to Naomi. “About a week later, Abby got me back after she gave me some experimental bubble gum, I didn’t even try to blow into it before it quickly inflated out of my mouth. When it finally popped, it cocooned me in a rubbery gum sack and she used me as a body pillow that night.” Naomi laughed with Abby while Ted was distracted by his intrusive thoughts, imagining the two beautiful women cuddling one another with their own methods of bondage.

“Ehem, but ever since you’ve arrived, we’ve discussed... combining our ideas to try on you.” Naomi continued once she got a hold of her laughter. “And thus, we’ve put together this very immersive campaign of P&B, AKA... Plushies and Bubbles!” Abby announced excitedly. “Oh...” Ted exclaimed softly, grabbing his interest even more knowing their niches were involved in the campaign, especially with his love for soft things. Using her tails, Naomi snatched three of Abby’s heart bubbles that had floated to the top of the ceiling and pulled them down. Taking one into her lips, she blew into it like a balloon puffing it up until it was the size of a couch cushion as it sagged in her hands, losing its reflective sheen and taking on a more fabric-like texture. With that, she dropped it to the floor next to the table and did the same with the other two, turning the bubbles into little bean bag-like cushions. “Alright. Let’s get started!” Naomi smiled, sitting on the other side of the table along with Abby.

Kneeling down, Ted sat down on his cushion as well, blushing as his butt sank into the soft bubbly-fabric. Even though it was no longer inflatable, it still maintained its bubblegum-ish surface, making it feel extremely smooth and squishy beneath his shorts. "Now then! The campaign is simple. You have to make your way through different mobs and bosses of cuddly Pokemon plushies to make your way to the Serpent Queen!" Abby announced, taking a piece that resembled Ted and putting it on the board. "The Serpent Queen is a powerful balloon-manser plush Pokemon, who controls the land of softness you'll be venturing through." Naomi explained. "Only by defeating the serpent queen will you be able to escape the land of softness. So you'll be paired with a partner to aid on your journey." Abby said, finishing up the synopsis. Ted looked down at the table, then back to Naomi and Abby, wondering where their pieces were.

"So... will you two be...?" he paused, looking a bit puzzled as he waited for them to get ready. "Oh! we're the dungeon master's sweetie, your objective is to play our game." Naomi explained with a rather mischievous tone in her voice. Ted didn't understand, but before he could ask anything else, the heart-shaped cushion he was kneeling on suddenly puffed up around his ankles with a loud hisssssss! By the time he realized what had happened, the cushion had already inflated over his lower half, squeezing him tightly as it expanded over his belly, causing a soft gasp to escape his lips. Naomi and Abby just smiled as they watched the cushion envelop him, the poor fox boy looking confused and flustered as the strange inflatable plush cushion swallowed him up to his neck, as if he was getting slurped up by amoeba.

He had only seconds before the pillow would envelop him entirely, with only his face sticking out of the heart-shaped plushie puffing up around him. "I-I thought we were going to play D and-" Ted disappeared within the cushion before he could finish, cutting him off as the pillow floated a couple of inches off of the floor. Abby and Naomi just giggled amongst each other, with Abby barely containing herself while Naomi simply placed her hand on her cheek with a chuckle. With the game all set, Naomi pulled out a plushy piece she had been hiding in her kimono, putting it down on the board as Abby began rolling the dice. Ted meanwhile, could only whimper as the plush squeezed him from top to bottom. It felt like he was being hugged, just a little too tight. "What happened to... playing D&D?" he thought to himself, barely even able to hear the sound of his own muffled whimpers over the sound of creaking fabric, that is until he realized that he was no longer surrounded by fabric.

The fabric wasn't creaking, it was squeaking like rubber, getting much tighter as the once plush surface now felt hollow and inflated. The heart cushion was turning back into a bubble, and hugging him ever more lovingly with every passing second until. POP! Ted collapsed on his hands and knees, finally freed from the smothering embrace of the bubble cushion. "Phew..." he let out a relieved breath. "Are we going to start the game or... what?" Ted went silent as his fingers sank into the surface beneath him, his eyes greeted with a floor just as squishy and pink as the bubble he had been trapped in. Slowly lifting his head up, his jaw nearly dropped as he found himself in a large field of pink bubbles. But beyond that, was an entire landscape that looked like it was made of shiny pink bubble gum and fabric, strikingly similar to the detailed sketches made by Abby and Naomi. He wasn't just playing D&D anymore, he was in D&D.

Yet again, he had been thrown into an entirely new world by his foxy mistresses. "Huh..." he mumbled, kneeling on the soft bubble gum-coated ground as the shock passed, noticing that he was once again in nothing but his boxers. "I probably should have expected this." he sighed, slowly standing back up as he planted his feet on the gummy surface. It felt like he was standing on a mochi-coated marshmallow as his toes sank into the pink glossy floor with the elasticity of rubber and the softness of plush. Lifting his foot off the ground, he watched as his footprint slowly disappeared from the surface, reforming as if it was made of memory foam before putting his foot back down. It almost felt like walking on wet sand, but so far he didn't seem to have a problem walking.

Just as he was about to take another step forward, one of the bubbles bumped into his back, making him gasp as the cold, squishy surface rubbed along his back. "Ah!" Stumbling forward, he turned around to face the round glossy orb, floating in the air as it gently bobbed up and down. It was roughly the size of an exercise ball, but wobbly like a soap bubble. Given his experience when it came to Abby's bubbles, he was rather suspicious of the innocent-looking ball of gum, but that didn't stop him from approaching it ever so slowly as he placed his hand on the surface. It was just as soft as he expected as he glided his hand along the surface with a squeak, feeling its soft wobbly surface squish under his palm.

With a reassured smile, he leaned forward and gave the bubble a big hug, squeezing it in his arms as he let out a happy sigh. The bubble perfectly maintained its buoyancy even as he leaned against it, allowing him to relax as he gleefully snuggled his face against the soft gummy surface. Ted had been dominated and teased so many times by Abby's bubbles, it was actually refreshing to meet a docile one for a change, cuddling it to his heart's content until he was finally calm. After about a minute of snuggling himself in the pink bubble, he released it from his arms and turned his attention toward one of the taller mountains off in the distance. It was ominously large compared to the other surrounding mountains, and strikingly similar in design to the one he saw in the D&D sketch. "Well then..." Ted signed to himself, giving the bubble a couple of pats before pushing it away. "Guess I'm off to visit the Snake Queen. or... whatever she was called." With that, he made his way through the bubble gum field, starting his journey through the land of softness.

Fortunately, after leaving the fields he managed to find a path leading in the direction he was headed as he walked into a forest of pink shiny foliage. The trees spread across his path looked like pool toys, with rows of puffy pink branches lining their inflatable trunks. The bushes on the other hand were strangely made of shiny-looking fabric, looking as if there were bean bags spread throughout the forest. It took a crazy amount of self-control not to take a break to lay down on one of the bushes to nap, but he knew better. If Naomi's plushy furniture back home was anything to go by, he knew that if he sat down to take a break, he likely wouldn't be willing to get back up anytime soon.

With all the bright pastel pinks and the pretty decorative foliage, it felt like he was walking through a bizarre theme park, sparking a nostalgic sensation of childlike excitement deep within him. Ted looked up toward the sky, but instead of seeing a sun or clouds, there were just large gargantuan bubbles floating above the landscape, looking as if they were planets or moons in orbit of the world he stood on. Speechless, he found himself mesmerized by the spectacle as his situation finally began to sink in, he wasn't just in a D&D game, but a completely new reality. Once he finally turned his attention forward, he noticed three pink bubbles were approaching him from up head.

Ted knew something wasn't right, there was no breeze so there was no reason that the bubbles should have been floating towards him. As they got closer, he noticed that the pink bubbles weren't quite as gummy as the ones from the field he had landed in. Instead, they had more reflective surfaces that crudely blended with the pastel environment around them. Stranger still, were the three humanoid silhouettes visible within each of them. Not knowing what to expect, he thought it would be best to hide for the time being as he turned back and made his way toward the forest. The bubbles however, would only correct their course to intercept him, picking up speed until they were right on top of him. Ted abruptly stopped in his tracks as one of the bubbles floated directly in his path, turning around only to realize that the bubbles had completely surrounded him, their glossy reflective surfaces mirroring his nervous expression as he let out an audible gulp.

Up close, he could just barely make out the silhouettes through the reflective membranes, enough to see that each figure had a set of large floppy ears until the orbs suddenly burst with a soft Pop "Eh?" Ted exclaimed. Emerging from their bubbles were three feminine anthropomorphic Lopunny, standing about as tall as he was. They each stepped closer to him as the one standing before him leaned in and gave him a little sniff, her plush nose twitching as a happy smile spread across her face. "We finally found one!" the Lopunny announced. The other two bunnies squeaked in excitement as they also approached Ted, placing their hands on him and examining him closely. The young man shivered as their soft plushie paws rubbed along his skin. The bunny to his left lifted up his arm and rubbed his shoulder, while the other kneeled down and began rubbing his belly, both closely examining his body as if he were here for a checkup.

Ted, too nervous to speak out, could only shiver and whimper as the adorable Lopunny girls touched and massaged his body. Their paws were so soft, and their touch was so gentle. While a bit invasive, it was so soothing he just wanted to melt in their arms and relax. "Wow... no plush at all" the bunny holding his arm exclaimed. "He doesn't really look like a human, but he certainly smells like one." The one examining his belly stated. They weren't exactly wrong, as he was human once less than a month ago, but thought it would be best to keep that to himself for the time being. Both of the bunnies smiled while they both nuzzled up to him from either side, holding on to his arms as if to keep him from moving. "Well, even if he's not human, a kitsune will do just as well." The one to his right giggled as she squeezed him. "Eh? Wha-" Ted stuttered nervously as the two Lopunny cozied up to him, unable to hide his blush as the one standing in front of him smiled with an amused chuckle. "Lucky boy. ❤️" she said with a mischievous tone, snapping her fingers as a massive pink bubble suddenly manifested around them. "Whoa!" in an instant, the pillable marshmallowy floor disappeared beneath his feet, replaced with a nearly frictionless rubber surface as he slipped and fell on his back.

The Lopunny girls giggled at his expense as he bounced on the rubbery floor, looking down at him as if he were a puppy learning to walk. The Lopunny girls didn't seem to have any trouble standing on their own, even as the floor wobbled from Ted's clumsy tumbles. With its passenger secure, the bubble floated off of the ground and made its way back from where the bunnies came, all while its new fox occupant continued to slip and stumble while attempting to get his footing. “W-What’s happening?” he asked, flustered and embarrassed as he remained stuck on the slippery floor. “We’re taking you to our lady.” one of the Lopunny girls said, lifting her chin proudly. “The Serpent Queen?” Ted blurted. The bunnies just stared at each other before bursting into laughter, with Ted still looking a bit confused as he finally stopped his squirming.

“Oh you’ll meet her eventually.” One of them teased. “For now, you’ll be seeing our mistress.” The one standing above his head purred in a rather seductive tone. Ted swallowed nervously, spending the rest of the trip in silence.

It didn’t take long for the bubble to arrive at its destination, passing into a small cave-like structure deep concealed within the dense balloon forest. All the while, Ted would remain embarrassingly curled up at the bottom of the bubble, with every movement he made resulting in a tiny squeak as the bunnies giggle at his bashful state. Unable to see anything past the opaque pink surface, it seemed like forever before he finally felt the bubble’s surface flatten out beneath him, indicating that they had finally landed somewhere. With that, the bubble dissipated around them, finally allowing Ted to sit up straight on the squishy but firm inflatable floor beneath him as he heard the familiar sound of giggling bunnies all around him.

Finally crawling on his knees, he was flabbergasted to find himself in a large cave packed with dozens upon dozens of cuddly-looking plush Lopunny’s. They all looked indescribably cuddly, ogling the kitsune boy as if they could barely contain their excitement for his arrival. As for the cave itself, the walls and floor seemed segmented into multiple rectangular cushions, all made of inflatable rubber rather than the vinyl-like gum from the path he had been walking earlier. There were several glowing balloons on the ceiling that illuminated the area, just enough that the cave wasn’t too dim, but enough to indicate that he was clearly deep within this inflatable structure.

Suddenly, all the giggling bunnies were silenced as a loud POP echoed throughout the glossy inflatable cave, startling Ted as his fur stood on end from his ears to the base of his fluffy tail. “Show me our guest.” a feminine voice commanded as the crowd of bunnies in front of Ted stepped aside. With the plush bunnies parted and lined up against the side of the cave, Ted could finally see who the voice belonged to, a much taller Lopunny sitting on a puffy inflatable throne with her legs crossed, wearing a pair of thigh-high socks and a high-neck crop top. The bunny seemed to be chewing gum as she stared at the kitsune boy, letting out a curious “hmmmm” as she slowly blew a bubble from her mouth. Sitting beside her throne was an anthropomorphic plush Pikachu and Floragato woman, dressed up in what appeared to be pink belly dancer attire, and cuddled up next to the Lopunny’s legs.

Though not nearly as shapely as the dozens of Lopunny standing around him, they were both incredibly beautiful, like characters you’d see out of an anime. However, they also looked a bit sad as they turned towards Ted, as if worried for the fox boy who was now in the presence of their mistress.

Suddenly, another loud bang reverberated throughout the cave. The Lopunny’s gum abruptly burst once again, causing Ted’s fur to stand up, and he curled his tail between his legs. Granted he had been a little more sensitive to loud noises since transforming into a fox, but even normal bubble gum shouldn't pop that loudly. After pulling the splattered gum back into her mouth, the tall Lopunny sat up from her throne and made her way towards Ted, walking on the tips of her paws as if wearing high heels. The floor squeaked and sagged under her feet with every step she made, swinging her hips confidently as she maintained eye contact with the Kitsune boy. Ted shivered nervously as she approached him, her footsteps causing the rubber beneath him to ripple and bounce the closer she got. Despite her plush body, she wasn't particularly light on her feet.

Once close enough, she leaned down directly into his face, looking rather curious as she scanned him up and down. "Interesting..." she mumbled. "I figured my bunnies would eventually bring home a human but..." she paused as she stared deep into his eyes, noticing how human they looked. "Something tells me you'll do just fine." a small smile appeared on her face as she continued chewing her gum. Ted didn't even know how to react, he just wanted to ask why they had brought him here, but was far too intimidated by the tall plush Pokemon standing over him. "So, what was a barely clothed thing like you doing in the vinyl forest of all places?" she asked with a giggle. Ted didn't immediately answer, somewhat stammering as he tried to compose himself in her presence, but his inability to answer her question only tested her patience as she began to blow another bubble from her mouth.

The young man flinched as the bubble quickly inflated in front of his face, preparing for yet another loud bang as his ears drooped. It wasn't until the bubble touched his nose that he finally managed an answer. "I'm... On my way to defeat the Serpent Queen!" he blurted. The tall plush Lopunny froze as she stopped blowing her bubble, her eyes widening as she quickly sucked it back into her mouth. For a second she almost looked alarmed as she stood there dumbfounded, only to burst out laughing immediately after. The Lopunny seemed amused by his answer, not even taking it seriously as she nearly spit out her gum laughing. Ted was left a bit embarrassed but relieved that he didn't have to hear another loud pop again. Once the bunny composed herself, she continued chewing her gum as she turned back to Ted. "You? Defeat the serpent Queen? Alone?" she asked in a somewhat unserious but sweet tone, now talking to him as if he were a child rather than a prisoner.

"Not too long ago, this world was made of plush, pillows, memory foam, and cotton. The trees were made of sateen, the mountains were squishy like marshmallows, and everything was as smooth and soft as spandex. But when the Serpent Queen came to power, she transformed nearly all but a tenth of the world inflatable. Nowadays, the average plush can't leave their house without the risk of getting trapped in a bubble, or stuck in gum, or getting captured by the serpent Queen's servants among other things." the bunny woman explained, leaving Ted a bit dumbfounded himself as he listened intently. "Honestly I'm surprised you made it as far as you did before my bunnies found you. Heck, I had a squad go missing recently after patrolling near the serpent Queen's territory. A world full of bubbles and pillows might sound like a place that's all fun and games for someone from the human world, but it's no walk in the park." she explained. Ted just looked down at the segmented rubbery floor, gulping nervously at the realization that his journey would be much more perilous than he initially thought. "So how about we make a deal?" the Lopunny said, once again using her more friendly voice as she put her foot underneath his chin. Ted's face turned beat red as she lifted his head up, once again making eye contact as she gently placed a hand on her plushy cheek. "Join us..." she cooed to him.

“Eh?” Ted’s blushing face looked baffled as he took her foot off of his chin, swinging her hips as she walked back towards her throne. “You see, plushies like us thrive from each other’s love and affection, it’s what keeps us alive.” Sitting back down on her throne, the Lopunny put her hand on the Floragato’s head, gently stroking her ears as the cat pokemon let out a hesitant but nervous purr. “But a human’s love, with your endorphins, serotonin, and all the other yummy little chemicals your brain releases, makes your love much more powerful... even a former human in your case. The blush from Ted’s face disappeared as his eyes shot wide open, just shocked that she could tell that he used to be human. “You want me to join your army, and fight the queen?” he asked.

“Not necessarily, I want you to pamper my army.” she explained, as Ted tilted his head curiously. “Cuddle them, hug them, squeeze them, kiss them, and shower them with affection. The more love you give my bunnies, the stronger they’ll become.” While the Lopunny continued her speech, the Floragato’s pleasurable purring grew louder as she melted into bliss, but the Pikachu remained nervous and fidgety as she kept her attention on Ted. “The last time I tried to overthrow the Serpent Queen, most of my bunnies ended up bubbled, ballooned, gummed, and taken prisoner within her rubber dungeon. But with your help, my bunnies could be strong enough to resist her inflatable attacks and finally storm her throne.” she announced proudly, her eyes half-closed as she gave him a rather flirty look. “What do you say? be a good boy and cuddle my bunnies? ❤️” she said in a deep somewhat motherly voice.

Ted thought for a moment, but it didn't take very long for him to make up his mind. Obviously he would need help to defeat the serpent queen, and he absolutely adored living plushies. But before he could answer... “D-Don’t!!!” The Pikachu woman blurted, standing up with her tail shivering behind her. The tall Lopunny immediately stopped petting the Floragato as a scowl appeared on her face. “They’re going to turn you into a Lopunny too! Don’t let them-mmph!” the Pikachu was suddenly interrupted as one of the Lopunny’s grabbed her from behind, and immediately pulled her into an intimate kiss. Ted Gasped as he watched the poor Pikachu trying to pull herself out of the bunny's grasp, only to be pinned to the ground as she was smooched relentlessly. The Lopunny Mistress sighed as she stood back up and went back to chewing her gum in a frustrated manner.

“Bring him here.” she commanded, beckoning him with her finger. Before Ted could say anything, the three Lopunny behind him grabbed both of his arms, pushing him forward until he was standing before their mistress. “Now, if you’ll be so kind as to lay down on the floor for a moment.” she said, unable to hide the frustration in her voice any longer. “W-Wait” Ted was cut off the mistress placed her foot on his chest, swiftly shoving him into the inflatable cushions as the floor squished beneath him with a squeak. Though it didn't hurt, he was completely pinned underneath her plushy foot. “I wasn't, asking.” she said in a deep intimidating voice, Leaning forward as she started blowing yet another bubble from her mouth.

Ted meeped as he saw his own bashful expression reflected within the surface of the shiny pink bubble, which slowly grew to the size of a watermelon as it gently touched his snout. The Lopunny wore a smug grin as she watched the little fox blush through the semi-transparent surface of the bubble, puffing up her chest as she prepared another breath. WHOOOSH! With a powerful huff, the bubble surged in size, instantly enveloping the young man's face in its film as his body was squished into the floor. Ted only had a few seconds to struggle, pushing against the bubble with his hands before both of his arms were pinned beside him. Within seconds, he was completely sandwiched between the rubber cushions and the squishy pink bubble, the Lopunny now shoving the pink orb atop him. The floor creaked and sank beneath him as he was pushed further into the folds of the latex, feeling as if she was trying to flatten him under the gummy-like surface of the smothering bubble. BWOMP! All of a sudden, the pressure released from his body as he was pulled inside, gasping as he recovered from the brief but intense squeezing.

The Lopunny smirked with her puckered lips as she bit off the bubble, allowing it to spring up from the floor as it floated a few inches off the ground, gently cradling the fox boy within. Ted couldn't hide his blushing face as the soft surface brushed against his fur, and tucked his tail between his legs. Even though he had been bubbled dozens of times before when playing with Abby, he couldn't quell the fluttering in his chest as he became visibly flustered. Being trapped in a bubble would always bring out his submissive side, looking as helpless and obedient as a puppy lying on its back.

The lead Lopunny purred with her voluptuous chest held up triumphantly. "Good boy. ❤️ Now stay put while my girls spoil you." On cue, four of the surrounding Lopunny girls from the crowd eagerly approached the bubbled fox, giggling flirtily as they leaned against the pink stretchy surface of his prison. Ted's heart beat out of his chest as the cute bunnies teasingly squished their plushie bodies against his bubble, slipping through the surface one by one as they piled on top of him. The bubble bounced and wobbled about as Ted found himself straddled by the bountiful bunnies, giggling as they stared down at him with flirty little smiles. Ted felt the last of his resistance fade as one of the bunnies placed her hand on his cheek, gently stroking his fur as she leaned in closer. Ted found himself unable to look away from her eyes as they slowly blinked with affection, offering no hesitation as she locked her lips with his.

"Mmmmm..." His body went limp as they began to kiss, the other bunnies smiling at each other as they went down on him as well. One of the Lopunny girls nuzzled up beside him resting her head on his shoulder as she hugged his arm. The other Lopunny wrapped her arms around his chest, bringing him to sit up slightly, and she began spooning him from behind. And the last bunny gently rubbed his belly with her paw and cuddled up to his right shoulder, where she would gently kiss his cheek. Before he knew it, he was wrapped up in a little cuddle pile, nearly forgetting about the bubble he was trapped in as the Lopunny plushies spoiled him rotten. The Pikachu, who finally managed to break her kiss with the Lopunny holding her, and the Floragato looked at one another with concern in their eyes. Despite their own helpless position as the Lopunny's pets, they wished they could do something to help. But it was already too late, the fox boy had already surrendered to the bunny's affection, feeling a strange tinkling sensation along his body as they cuddled him.

"That's it sweetie, don't resist..." The lead Lopunny cooed happily as she sat on her throne, crossing her legs as she playfully petted the Floragato's plushie head. "By the time my girls are done having their way with you, you'll just be another one of my giggly silly love-struck little bunnies." Ted could barely hear the Lead Lopunny as his mind melted from the comfort, practically cocooned in the bunny's affection as thoughts of hugs and kisses flooded his mind. With the young man subdued, the bunnies simply watched with anticipation as they waited for Ted's plushie transformation to take hold.

The fox boy had become a blushing moaning mess, cocooned by the plushy bunnies snuggling him. With his objective nearly forgotten, all he wanted now was to return the bunnies smothering affection. Suddenly, a sleek voluptuous figure emerged from the crowd of bunnies, leaping in the air like an acrobat towards the bubble holding Ted. Startled, the lead Lopunny didn't even have enough time to react before the figure landed on the pink bubble, causing it to burst with a loud POP!

Slowly regaining his composure, Ted was left completely dazed as the room spun around him, feeling as if his ears had just popped from a sudden change in pressure. The last thing he remembered was being kissed by one of the bunnies before his bubble became a prison of plushy affection. Sprawled out on the floor with the four bunnies, he felt a soft pair of arms scoop him off of the floor as he was cradled in a gentle hug. Once his vision cleared up, he found himself in the arms of a beautiful fox woman. Anthropomorphic in form, she had the body shape voluptuous Zoroark, but with the the fur and color pallet of an Eevee, wearing several sets of jewels on her body. The woman's chest was so big, it pressed up against his cheek like a pillow, so soft and plush she was even squishier than the Lopunny.

She looked down at him with a doting smile, making him squeak nervously with a foxy meep as she gently stroked his head. "You!" the lead Lopunny growled, shoving the poor Floragato girl aside as she stomped off her throne "Release my Kitsune immediately!!!" she shouted. The fox woman smiled as pulled Ted closer to her chest. "Sorry hun... but I've already got dibs on this boy." she purred, giving the fox boy a playful wink. Ted blushed as his tail wagged beneath him, brushing against the voluptuous hips of the mysterious woman holding him. The Lopunny clenched her teeth, puffing out her chest as she raised her chin. "What are you all waiting for!? Bubble her!!!

Right on command, the Lopunnies quickly surrounded them as a few began blowing pink bubbles from their mouths, their eyes locked onto the fox woman. Ted gulped nervously, but the fox woman simply smirked with excitement. With that, the bubbles surged in size as they shot straight for them. The fox woman tightened her grip on Ted, holding him close as she effortlessly dodged the incoming projectiles, ducking under the first bubble, side-stepping a second one, then doing a backflip over another. Despite the size of her bodacious body, the fox woman moved with such grace and fluidity that she made it look easy. Failing to hit their target, every bubble that shot past her would tumble across the room and envelop a Lopunny the crossfire. The bubbled bunnies could only yelp and squeak as they were each trapped in their own pink projectiles, none of them having enough time to react before it was too late.

Refusing to let up, even more of the bunnies began blowing bubbles at the elusive fox woman, sending them in each and every direction across the cave. It made no difference, the woman looked as if she was dancing around their gummy projectiles as she held Ted tightly to her chest, giggling in delight as the bubbles darted around her. At this point, there were so many bubbles in the room that the Lopunnies had lost sight of her, now firing their orbs indiscriminately as they flew all over the place. The lead Lopunny had to lay low as she narrowly avoided benign hit by a few of the bubbles, growling in frustration as she never took her eyes off Ted and the fox woman. "YOU BIMBOS!!!" she shouted, stomping her feet as she stood back up. "Ceasefire! She's right- "HUMPH!" before she could finish her sentence, a pink bubble had squished into her, encasing her body from the neck down.

"Hurrgrh!" she groaned as she pushed against the bubble, trying to pull herself out. But no matter how hard she struggled, the membrane refused to give, maintaining an airtight seal around her neck. "Sto-MPHH!" Before she could finish her command, a smaller bubble squashed against her face before enveloping her head like a helmet. The lead Lopunny's commands we're now heavily muffled and completely inaudible over the ensuing chaos.

At this point, more than half the bubbles in the room had a Lopunny plush trapped inside of them, still firing around the room without any rhyme or reason. It was as if the Lopunnies had forgotten what they were firing at to begin with. Even the Fox woman was having a difficult time evading the all bubbles as they became more erratic and unpredictable. Just as a particularly large bubble was flying straight towards them, she grabbed a nearby Lopunny and held her up as a shield at the last second. The bunny gasped as she was enveloped instead, sending her bouncing to the other side of the room. The fox woman let out a sigh of relief as she looked down at Ted. "Alright, I think it's time we leave these bunnies to their own bubbles, let's go!" With that, she leaped in the air and began hopping atop the bubbles to maneuver through the chaos and towards the exit.

The lead Lopunny could only let out an inaudible yell in frustration as she watched the fox woman take Ted away. Maneuvering through the bubbles spilling out of the cave by the dozen, the fox woman managed to escape with Ted, running through the forest until they made it back to the trail.

"Phew..." she gasped, still holding the bashful fox boy tightly in her arms as she looked up into the sky, where dozens of bubbled bunnies could be seen floating above the trees. Flustered and helpless, the bunnies could be seen bapping their paws against their bubbles, clumsily slipping and sliding within the rubbery membranes as they jiggled in the air. "Well now... I don't remember bubble bunnies being in today's forecast." she chuckled before turning her attention to Ted, who was blushing ear to ear with his face still squished up against her breast. "You okay hun?" she asked in a soft tone, stroking the top of his head with her thumb. Ted's heart skipped a beat at the sound of her gentle voice, calming down as she petted him.

Being held by her was different than when he was pampered by the bunnies, more tender and genuine. It didn't feel like he was under a spell, rather he simply felt comfortable in her presence, just like with Stella and Abby. With a squeak, he nodded bashfully, the fox woman smiling as she let him down and allowed him to stand. "Sorry I'm late." she kneeled down with their hands daintily placed on her knees. "Your name is Ted I take it? I'm one of Naomi's plushies, you can call me Sophi. She and Abby sent me here to help you through this campaign." she announced politely. "Ah..." Ted exclaimed, quickly recognizing Naomi's handiwork as he oggled her Voluptuous plush body. "I was supposed to meet you further down the path, but the bunnies got to you before I did. I'm sorry I didn't come sooner." she apologized as she leaned closer to him, placing a plush claw on his cheek. "But don't worry... Momma will protect you from the big bad bubble bunnies from now on.❤️” she cooed teasingly, puckering her lips in a flirty manner.

Ted squeaked like a chew toy as his cheeks blushed right through his blue fur, his tail wagging behind him. Sophi giggled, finding his reaction utterly adorable as she held out her hand. “Come sweetie, we have a long walk ahead of us.” she said with a smile. Ted, still wagging his tail like crazy, slowly reached out as he held her paw. With a playful smirk, Sophi pulled him closer, kneeling down just a bit so she could look him in the eye. “Or if you want, I could carry you again if you ever get tired.” she teased. At this point, steam was coming out of Ted’s ears, unable to hide his beaming smile as his tail swayed like crazy. “I-I-I-I-I would lo- I mean- Ye.. uh... maybe...” he stuttered stumbling over his words before he managed to pull himself together. “Th-Thank you. I’ll walk for now, but... thanks.” he managed to squeak out. Sophi smiled lovingly, taking a moment to admire his adorable reaction as she stood back up. “Just let me know when you need a break. My arms will always be open for you.” she replied with a loving smile pulling him close as they made their way onward.

Meanwhile, one particularly cramped bubble flooded its way out to the path, wiggling in wobbling until it touched the ground. Bursting without pop, both the Pikachu and Floragato’s emerged from the bubble as they tumbled onto the gummy floor, looking dizzy as they managed to sit back up. “Gosh... I can’t believe we finally to get out of there.” the Pikachu sighed with relief. “Thank goodness those bunnies were such Airheads.” the Floragato chuckled, readjusting her bikini-like outfit as she sat back up on her knees. “If those foxes hadn’t shown up when they did, who knows how much longer we would have been stuck there.”

The Pikachu Stood up, stretching her arms let out a groan. “Providing cuddles to an army of lesbian bunnies sounded fun at first, but...” she paused for a second as she finished stretching. “Well it was actually a lot of fun. But those bunnies are soooooo needy...” the Pikachu followed up with a blush. “I kind of wish we could have gotten to cuddle that fox boy though, he looked so fluffy.” the Floragato giggled that she stood up as she her cheeks. “Well let’s hope he was able to escape too.” The Pikachu said grabbing the Floragato’s hand. “We should get going to before those bunnies reorganize and come searching for us.” They walked off putting some distance between themselves and the bunnies hideout.

“So... We’re keeping these bikini outfits right?” the Floragato asked. “Of course we are.” The Pikachu said Looking back at the Floragato with a wink. “ we look fantastic in these.”