

Fugitive to Fatty

A Pokémon Mystery Dungeon... Thing.

(Warning, contains weight gain, vore, belching and unrealistic sizes)

A chill breeze emanated from the mouth of the Lapis Cave. Yamor the Treecko and his partner, Agu the Squirtle, were recently exiled from their home; their departure prompting Rescue Teams, much like their own- to hunt them down. The team became fugitives, and their journey had led them here- to the Lapis Cave.

“Hmm... Seems the only way forward is through here.” Yamor observed- It was too late to turn back; they had to keep running. “Well, Agu- I hope you’re ready, because I’ve got your back!” Agu, as usual, didn’t respond. For a Squirtle, he was very quiet- which makes sense, as he was once a human. This was the reason the two were exiled. The two had no time to wait, as they began to hear other Pokémon swiftly approaching. Yamor jumped from the sound, startled that others had followed their trail this quickly.

“Yikes! Are those guys still on our tails?!” The Treecko says to his partner, with a look of concern and shock over his face. The partners had no time to waste, quickly running into the Mystery Dungeon ahead...

As they entered, Agu cautiously looked around- thankfully, it seemed no one was waiting for them in here- phew... Unfortunately, Yamor had forgotten to eat the Eyedrop Seed he kept in his bag; resulting in the clumsy Treecko to fall onto a warp trap! Agu gasps at the sight, unable to stop the trap as a purple glow engulfed his partner and warped him elsewhere on the floor...

“Ugh... Where...?” Yamor looks around- this place he was warped to... it didn’t seem right. There were no visible entrances or exits, and the room was covered in a thick, blue fog that smelt of sea salt... He didn’t know it, but this fog was causing him to grow hungry, and soon ravenous. The Treecko begins to pace through the foggy room, seeing what looked like a pile of items just left there on the floor. Curious, he approaches them. Upon closer inspection, it turned out that this pile of items was actually a large pile of Oran Berries and Apples! Yamor’s eyes widened, running towards the stack of food and eating up a Big Apple as he dived into it. Strangely, as he ate the delicious fruit, something seemed... off. Big Apples were meant to fill your belly by a lot, but strangely he felt nothing. He shrugged it off- maybe it was just a bad apple! Yamor shoves a Perfect Apple into his mouth, and still, nothing. This was concerning to him, no doubt- but his hunger was a beast, forcing him to stuff more and more amounts into his mouth. Due to this, he slowly began to gain weight. Acquiring a pudgy chest and packing on pounds on his posterior.

The Treecko continues to binge, shoving multiple Oran Berries into his increasingly greedy maw at once. The hunger becomes more and more uncontrollable, causing Yamor to growl angrily in frustration. “Why am I not full yet?!” He yells to himself, before letting out a light belch and throwing an Apple into his mouth. The food pile slowly depletes as the gluttonous gecko eats more and more, getting plumper and plumper. Before long, the pile is depleted to a single bag... Yamor falls to the floor as he eats the last Perfect Apple in the pile. Shaking his entire body and butt as he lets out a long, triumphant burp! His belly weighed him down, so much that he's now more of a fat blob than a Treecko. He had developed lardy neck rolls and a sizable pair of moobs. His bloated belly sagged down and groaned- its hunger barely sated. Yamor grunts as he lets out a sigh- he would definitely be full by now had this been a normal day. But now he was a huge fatty! He struggled to get himself back up, his blobby behind wiggling, each cheek the size of an Escape Orb. Eventually, he heaves his giant body up, his body almost sagging to the floor as it wobbles, still hungering...

Suddenly, the blue fog would fade, revealing... Oh no, was this a Monster House?! A huge horde of Zubat, Nidorina and Tangela dropped from the ceiling, ready to attack the barely-mobile Treecko. Yamor panics, unable to do any of his agility moves due to his newfound flabbiness. He panics further, impulsively falling down onto his belly and grabbing a nearby Nidorina with his chubby hands. Upon grabbing the Pokémon, Yamor's insatiable hunger returns, barely controlling himself as he opens wide and stuffs the Nidorina deep into his maw! He gulps them down, savouring the taste of the poison type as he belches a few purple bubbles upon swallowing them down. An approaching Zubat attempts to hit the Treecko, but only causes the glutton's belly to jiggle and grumble, beckoning more! Yamor does the same to all the Pokémon he can see, stuffing all of them deep into his expanding tummy through his maw. Once he cleared the room, something dawned on the now completely immobilised blob. He had grown much stronger with all this extra weight, maybe if he gets big enough, he could use it to protect himself and Agu from harm!

With this revelation, he greedily looks around for more to consume and add to his blubber, glancing over to the bag that almost touched his small-room-sized gut, he realised, it was spewing out Apples and Berries?! Seeing this, he picks up the bag with his chubby hand, leaning down and moving the bag in such a way that it gets stuck in his maw! Yamor quickly begins to feel a steady stream of Apples and Oran Berries flow into his mouth, very quickly accelerating the growth of his gigantic body. He finally begins to push against the walls of the room, putting strain on the rock walls. There was only one statement going through Yamor's mind as his bloating belly and blubbery butt balloon outwards with mass- "Fatter, stronger- for Agu- I must protect my best friend!" More and more chub packs onto the grass type, inflating his moobs to double the size of his entire body before he began to consume.

A voice can be heard approaching from a corridor previously unseen by the Treecko. "Yamor? Are you down heeere?" A familiar voice- Agu! Yamor groans, trying to get the bag off of his mouth so he can call out to his partner, but with no luck. The Squirtle turns around the corner to see a huge, fleshy wall of Treecko butt engulfing the entire room ahead! He jumps back, startled, before cautiously walking closer to the large, green mass. "Wh-What are y-you?" The Squirtle asks, not expecting any response. After some effort, Yamor manages to barely muffle out a word. "Agu... Mmmphhh-" He says, still attempting to get the bag away. Agu's eyes widened- this... this blob of blubber was Yamor?! He didn't even say a word, before running forward and beginning to climb the jiggling mass.

The impact from the Squirtle beginning to climb resulted in Yamor being forced to tilt his head back, wobbling his fatty neck rolls and bouncing the bottomless bag right down into his mouth! This startles him, and he struggles to adjust as Agu scales his huge rump, with intent to get to his face, fast. As the endless source of Apples and Berries falls into Yamor's stomach, his growth began to accelerate. He was quickly gaining more butt fat and tummy lard, slowly but comfortably burying his head in increasing amounts of neck flab. Agu looks up at the room-filling blob's head, still in awe. This awe-struck sensation didn't last, as soon the two heard other voices. "We're getting close! I saw them go that way!" One voice shouted. Agu yelps and dives between Yamor's big, doughy moobs. The sensation of this made Yamor grunt a little, but he began to slowly turn himself around to face the corridor. "Don't worry, Agu, I'll keep us safe! Just watch!" The Treecko says with a confidence previously unfound.

Even though he could barely see past his own mass, he notices three Pokémon gasping in shock at the sight of him. Alakazam, Charizard and Tyranitar stood within the corridor, lost for words at the massive grass starter. Yamor smirks, and uses this opportunity to announce himself. "Hahahah!! I guess the hunters have become the hunted! If you want Agu, you're gonna have to get through me, first!" the Treecko wiggles around as he laughs, as the three still stare in shock. Meanwhile, within his stomach, the bottomless bag he accidentally consumed produces a Lasso Orb, instantaneously digesting and coming into effect! Yamor lets out a belch, before the orb forces him to begin inhaling with unmatched strength!! Countless Pokémon including the three in front of him were all soon added to his mass, alongside a few items and some rocks and lapis from the walls that he soon began to fill! Yamor's mass exploded out of the Lapis Cave, filling it and destroying the entire dungeon, and showing no signs of slowing!!

The obese blob of a Treecko bursts out, rapidly bloating out like a balloon, quickly flattening trees and all else nearby. Somehow, Yamor's sheer desire to protect his partner infused itself with the lapis that he had consumed in his inhalation, eventually manifesting itself in a strange psychic ability that Yamor inadvertently discovered. As his Lasso Orb abilities fade, he belches, letting out a triumphant sigh. This lapis-induced power would kick in fast, as entire forests would suddenly gain a blue aura, as they're uprooted into the Treecko's gluttonous maw. Meanwhile, Agu was snuggily squished between Yamor's giant moobs-wriggling a little as they grow, similarly to his partner, stuck in a blissful euphoria. The Treecko inhaled stronger than ever, eating away at entire ecosystems and consuming all of the Rescue Teams that were hunting the two fugitives down.

Soon enough, the grass type's butt had completely covered some nearby mountains, and his gigantic belly was almost reaching Pokémon Square. The glutton didn't even mind the strange, crunchy yet bitter taste of the wood, leaves and other foliage he was devouring, he would, in truth, eat anything if it meant growing lardier, and more powerful! As he finishes off the nearby forest, he moves onto the mountains nearby, using his powers to cause Mt. Blaze to erupt. He flowed the lava into his maw, guzzling it down and it began heating him up. A side effect of this was that his stomach began to glow a bright orange, and also began to heat up the ground under him! The warm liquid tasted like Blast Seeds, something Yamor particularly enjoyed. As he continues to drain the planet's magma, he crushes Pokémon Square as he rapidly outgrows the continent!

The gigantic Treecko's blubbery body can be seen from Serene Village, and his belly's blubbery growls can be heard from Sharpedo Bluff. His lardy mass of a belly began to sag off into the ocean, causing huge tsunamis with unmatched strength. Agu was squashed between Yamour's mountainous, mattress-like moobs, letting out a squeaky sound as he wriggled around, feeling better than ever. Soon, Yamor outgrew it all, from the deepest depths to the tallest mountains, he had eaten the world's very core, and soon the very planet would crumble under his mass.

As Yamor let out a long, satisfied belch, he knows that he is the strongest. His hunger finally sated, he and Agu would drift off to sleep...