Is there anything else we should know?

He's a Wolf-Lion hybrid, he loves to dress casual and elegant clothes, he loves cold weather. He loves health science, he obtains two college degrees (Associate degree of Radiologic Technology and bachelor's degree of CT scan and MRI), and he is a proud Boricua Wolf-Lion And is doing this for his mother and father. Especially female friend who helps him to move along and never gives up on his dream. He always loves to have long manes to have a ponytail like Dope from Beastars.

His story is about to help anyone who feels sorrow, having a bad time, and trying his best to save everyone's dream or career. Despite his studies in only health technology, it feels like he wants to help everyone. Not just the sickness or pathology, but also emotionally. He had the same experience to everyone that it feels vulnerable and lonely. Even though he's a hybrid and he's autism, everyone thinks that he was a freak before. But with the help of his families and true friends, he stands up and continue his duty to save everyone's wishes, and their career.
